Storm of Snow in New Mexico and Southern Colorado.

Stalled in Snow Drifts for Days Without Fire or Food.

Washington Admitted.

WASHINGTON, November 11.—Secretary Blaine to-day telegraphed the territorial governor of Washington that the president had signed the proclamation admitting the territory to be a state in the union at five o'clock and twenty seven minutes this afternoon.

OLYMPIA, Wash., November 11.—The senate and house met this afternoon and proceeded to elect state officers. Later while the house was debating a joint resolution to hold a night session to proceed to the election of United States senators a message was received from Governor Moore announcing the reception of a dispatch from Secretary Blaine stating that the president had signed the state's proclamation. Instantly every member sprang to his feet and it was some minutes before order was restored. [illegible] Tasker, an old pioneer of the state, rose to his feet and in a brief speech, trembling with emotion, congratulated the legislature and people on admission. In the senate the proclamation was also received with continued cheering and the wildest enthusiasm.

A telegram was received from Congressman Wilson announcing that he was present when the message was signed. In view of the proclamation the resolution to elect senators to-night was laid on the table and it is generally understood that no election will take place until Tuesday of next week, November 19. If the election had taken place this evening ex-Delegate John Allen and ex-Governor Watson Squire would certainly have been chosen on the first ballot. From the present appearances they will certainly be chosen whenever the election occurs. The inauguration of the new state officers will take place next Monday. Elaborate preparations for the event are being made.

Stories of the Storm.

TRINIDAD, November 11.—Various parties who spent ten days in the snow blockade between Emery Gap and Folsom arrived in this city to-day. They report suffering to men and animals fully as great as shown in the former reports. Patrick Casey, engineer, was eleven days making the run from Trinidad to Texline and return. Two days and nights he was without food. One meal he made on a jack rabbit caught in the snow. Seventy five men shoveling snow at Mount Dora were cut off from food two days and nights. They got some sheep out of snow drifts, roasted and ate them. A delayed passenger train was cut off from eating stations three days. They drew on the express car for supplies. The men who shoveled snow when hungry tapped freight cars containing canned goods. With an iron chisel or [illegible] a hungry man would knock a hole in a can of corn or tomatoes and then drink the contents.

Sometimes this raw food was frozen, but it went well among men so hungry. Two live goats were being shipped in a caboose but the hungry men cut their throats and ate them raw, the report says. A sick man travelling with two children lay on his back two days helpless. He had only crackers for nourishment. A sheep grower near Ute creek, a Mr Garcia is reported to have lost [illegible] head from a flock of 8000.

Engineer Lyon said that he saw more real destitution during ten days in this snow blockade than in all his life before. The road was opened with a rotary snow plow, but remained open only a few hours. This morning's snow and wind filled the cuts again and the passenger train due here from the south this forenoon is stuck in the snow to-night. Altogether the blizzard has been a terrible one. No one ever saw or heard of such a storm in southern Colorado or New Mexico. It was a Dakota storm that got off its course and struck an unsuspecting [illegible]. President Morgan Jones of the Fort Worth road was himself a passenger [illegible] from the scene of the [illegible] to-day.

Will Shorten the Time.

[illegible], November 11.—The first official intimation of the reported traffic [illegible] between the Chicago and Northwestern and the Union Pacific [illegible] from the former to-day. [illegible] have formed a combination [illegible] handling of freight and passengers. [illegible] The joint through service is [illegible] as the Chicago, Union Pacific [illegible] Northwestern line. A fast [illegible] train will be established on [illegible] whereby passengers and [illegible] be carried through from Chicago [illegible] Portland and San Francisco. [illegible] time from Chicago to Portland [illegible] three hours and from San Francisco of eighty five [illegible] will reduce the time here [illegible] on the Chicago and western [illegible] New York and eastern [illegible] Portland seven hours and to San [illegible] twelve hours, the arriving [illegible] new train being 6.30 a. m. at [illegible] 9.45 a. m. at San Francisco [illegible] in the evening [illegible] makes practically the delivery [illegible] twenty four hours [illegible] reduction in time east [illegible] the passenger and mail [illegible] reaching Chicago at 8.30

Tried to Save Her.

[illegible], November 11.—Captain [illegible] steamer Arizona from [illegible] arrived to-day. He [illegible] on November 5 in [illegible] 25.19 he sighted [illegible] bored east and [illegible] I am afraid." The Arizona [illegible] and Captain Brooks offered [illegible] in his power. The [illegible] asked him to [illegible] but this Captain [illegible] was impossible. He stood [illegible] hour, the Queen more

[illegible]

Joseph O'B[illegible] Cronin [illegible] days after Cronin's disappearance. Beggs expressed the opinion that Cronin would turn up all right, and Dennis Ward who was with him said he thought Cronin had run away with some woman. Maurice Morris, a friend of Cronin's, testified as to a conversation had with Dennis Ward in the presence of Beggs. Ward asserted that Cronin had gone away with a woman when Morris got mad and said emphatically that Cronin had been [illegible] by people in this city. Beggs then remarked: "Oh you are not posted. We are in the inner circle and know what we are talking about."

In reply to questions by the attorneys, Morris stated as his definition of the "inner circle" that the I. N. B. before they united with the U. B. belonged to the inner circle. A lengthy examination regarding the "inner circle," "triangle," "anti-triangle" and Clan-na-Gael, to [illegible] dragging in faction fights, in order to establish if possible what Beggs' reference to the inner circle meant [illegible] counsel Forrest, for the defense, objected to it all as hearsay and inadmissible. Forrester, counsel for Beggs, was willing it should remain in the evidence. But the court finally ruled that it should be stricken out so far as it applies to any of the defendants except Beggs.

Cronin's clothes and surgical instruments found in a Lake View sewer last Friday, were then exhibited, and the sewer cleaner told about finding them. Mrs Conklin at whose house Cronin lived, identified the clothes and other articles as Cronin's property.

Miss Willard Re-elected.

CHICAGO, November 11.—Miss Francis E. Willard was re-elected president of the national W. C. T. U. this morning. The vote was practically unanimous, since on the informal ballot, Mrs J. Ellen Foster of Iowa, who represented the non partisan element, received but nine votes.

Fined for Sunday Performances.

CINCINNATI, November 11.—Three theatre managers together with one opera company, one gaiety company and one dramatic company were before the police court to-day charged with violating the law by giving Sunday performances yesterday. The managers were fined $15 each and all the performers sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution. In the case of one theatre this was the second offense. The judge gave them notice that another violation of the law would subject all parties concerned to arrest at any time during the performance and to such additional fine within the law as might seem best to the court.

Natives up in Arms.

LONDON, November 11.—Since the news arrived of the homeward march of Stanley with Emin Pasha and his party, and of the reported disaster to Dr. Peters' relief expedition, the British East African company has been rapidly picking up all the best available men to send out to protect its territories from raids by rebellious natives. Judging from the activity displayed in securing fighting men the British East African company must anticipate having to do some heavy work in order to hold its territory against the Arabs. The latest news from that region indicated that all the native elements are up in arms, and are for the moment brethren in a common cause, to drive out the detested foreigners. This serious uprising on the part of the natives is attributed to Captain Wissmann's attempt to increase the sphere of German influence by exterminating the people.

The Rock Island Scheme.

CHICAGO, November 11.—It is stated on good authority that the Rock Island road has made satisfactory arrangements for competing with the Northwestern-Union Pacific combination for the Pacific coast traffic. President Cable was successful while in New York in securing allies for a trans continental combination and only the minor details of the plan remain unsettled. The same authority says the facts will be given to the public in a few days. President Cable refuses as yet to make any statements.

Burned in the Straits.

PORTLAND, Oregon, November 11.—While the passenger steamer J. H. Libby, with a cargo of 500 barrels of lime, was crossing the straits between Dungeness and Smith's island yesterday, a strong wind came up. Several heavy seas were shipped, the rudder was unshipped and the steamer became helpless. The lime became wet and flames were soon discovered. The vessel burned so rapidly that the fifteen passengers and crew had barely time to get on two rafts and escape, one of the rafts nearly foundering before those getting on it were rescued. The passengers and crew were finally picked up by a passing schooner.

Could Not Open the Safe.

MANHATTAN, KAS., November 11.—An expert worked all day to-day attempting to open the safe of the defaulting county treasurer, Fortner, who is now in Canada, but could not force the lock and the amount of his defalcation is not yet known. The county commissioners estimate the shortage at $75,000. Fortner speculated considerably in real estate and built two stove foundries, one being at Des Moines, Ia. It is supposed the county's money went into these enterprises. Fortner's bond amounts to $125,000 and his property has all been turned over to his bondsmen.

CATHOLIC CONGRESS.

[illegible] Catholic [illegible] the Past [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] with Archbishop [illegible] of New York.

Archbishop [illegible] delivered [illegible] chairman [illegible] Pope Leo. Instantly there was a [illegible] cheering and [illegible] the delegates [illegible] announced greeting to the Roman pontiff.

Carroll, on taking the chair, said: "It may be that the question will be asked, by what authority is this congress held and under what law does it assemble. In reply to this we would suggest it is held by the sanction of his eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Baltimore and the distinguished prelates who now surround us and by virtue of the authority of the constitution of the United States. The congress has but two great purposes at heart, the glory and progress of the Catholic church and the continued prosperity of the American people." The following cablegram from Rome was then read:

Cardinal Gibbons, Baltimore:

Having made known to the holy father the expressions of devotion conveyed to him on the part of the Catholic congress to be held in Baltimore, his holiness graciously bids me to say that he most affectionately imparts his blessing to all the members. M. RAMPOLLA.

Hon. Daniel Dougherty, of New York, was invited by the chairman to address the congress pending the appointment of committees. The famous orator was in his best form and voice and he was given a perfect ovation by the congress. Dougherty said in part:

In colonial times the Catholics suffered the direst cruelties, in comparison with which slaves were high bred guests. The only religious martyrs in America were the Catholics. They were spurned, slandered and vilified. The highest honors of the republic were denied them by prejudice as strong as the constitutional enactment. The consolation of religion was denied to sick and suffering Catholics in many institutions of charity and to criminals in prison. They could call themselves pre-eminently American, for without Catholicism America to-day would be unknown. Liberty which is freedom to worship God was established in America by the Catholics alone. Though the growth of the country has been marvelous that of Catholicism has outstripped it. From a despised people they became a mighty power. The Catholic church is the protector of learning and it was she who saved classic literature from the ruins of the Roman empire. On the eve of the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America it is proper to say that all the tremendous results achieved therefrom are due directly to the Roman Catholic church alone. Protestantism was unknown when America was discovered. It was a Catholic, Columbus, who conceived the mighty thought, a monk encouraged him, a cardinal interceded with the sovereigns of Spain and a Catholic king and queen made his expedition possible. It was to spread the Catholic faith that the risk was run and it was the standard of Catholicity which was first planted on these shores and for over one hundred years the only Christian worship on the continent was Catholic.

All through Dougherty's address there were outbursts of cheers, and at the conclusion the dignitaries on the stage crowded around him and shook him warmly by the hand. Several other speeches were made by prominent Catholics. Cardinal Gibbons entered accompanied by Cardinal Taschereau of Canada, and both were formally introduced to the congress. Cardinal Gibbons addressed the delegates, welcoming them in his own name and that of the people of Baltimore, irrespective of creed. The temporary organization was made permanent and a short recess followed.

On reassembling the committees were announced and the regular work of the congress was then begun by the reading of the first paper, "The Catholic Congress" by the historian, John Shea, of New York. The next paper was by Major Henry F. Brownson, of Detroit on "Lay Action in the Church." Chas. J. Bonaparte eloquently discussed the "Independence of the Holy See," the necessity for which he enthusiastically upheld. He gave a vivid sketch of the changing conditions of the see from the time of Charlemagne to the moment of the Italian government's civil deprivation of Pius IX of all temporal authority and the enactment of the law of guarantee, whereby the Italian parliament professed to guard the papal rights. He thought that a more important feature was that this guarantee should be made the subject of a treaty between all the great powers making it world wide. In the course of Bonaparte's address great cheering was elicited by the declaration that "whether the pope be an exile or a captive a subject he cannot be." The congress adjourned at the conclusion of Bonaparte's address until to-morrow.

The most extraordinary scene this evening came at the conclusion of the reception when the prelates, headed by the cardinals, [illegible] a current of the [illegible] shaking hands with people right and left [illegible] The display of enthusiasm [illegible] paid [illegible] in this country. The bishops and archbishops especially those from west of St. Paul, and notably Foley of Detroit and Riordan of San Francisco, were seized [illegible] every side. How they got safely through the exuberant demonstration the one can never be accurately told. A notable event was

Results of Gambling.

HELENA, Mont., November 11.—W. R. Bell registered from Galveston, Texas, but whose home is supposed to be at Denver, Colorado, suicided at the Grand Central hotel this afternoon by putting a bullet through his brain. He had been gambling since his arrival in Helena and gave checks to various merchants on banks where he had no funds. His victims reported to the police, and when an officer went to arrest him to avoid disgrace he killed himself. He is said to be well connected in Denver, which he left on account of domestic troubles.

DENVER, November 11.—W. R. Bell, who suicided at Helena to-day and who was reported as a citizen of Denver, is not known here. Later dispatches from there give his home as Ault, and state he was connected with a Denver tea house. The reporters to-night failed to learn anything about either man.

Official [illegible]

DES MOINES, Ia., November 11.—The official vote for state officers has been canvassed in every county. To-day the State Register has received full returns from 86 out of 99 counties. They show Boies democrat, for governor is elected by a plurality estimated at 6,000. The lowest vote on the republican ticket outside of the governor was for lieutenant governor, and the returns on 86 counties give Poyner, republican, 150,031, and Bestow, democrat, 152,314. The probable estimate on the thirteen remaining counties, basing the estimate on the vote for Hutchison who runs behind Poyner gives Poyner the election by about 500 plurality. The rest of the republican ticket is therefore also elected by pluralities from one to three thousand.

No Credence Given It.

BERLIN, November 11.—Dr. Hart telegraphs from Zanzibar that he gives no credence to the report of the death of Dr. Peters. He says that at the beginning of October Lieutenant Borchert's dhow, with Lieutenant Rust's column on board, was wrecked near Kipine and all the provisions were lost. At the end of October Borchert and party, newly equipped, proceeded.

LONDON, November 11.—Dispatches received at the foreign office from Zanzibar contain the report of the massacre of Dr. Peters and his party by the natives.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., November 11.—The long bridge connecting Cambria city and Millvale was entirely demolished this morning by high water. The loss will greatly retard the removal of the dead from the Morrellville cemetery to permanent resting places in Prospect cemetery.

A Fresh Manifesto.

LONDON, November 11.—Boulanger has issued from the Isle of Jersey a fresh manifesto to the people of France declaring that revision has only been postponed and that the revisionists were never more certain of ultimate victory.

The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press explains the democratic successes at the late election by saying that "it is the hungry and not the well-fed dog that hustles around and finds the small bone." After the success of the republicans in the national election last year the reflex motion in the political tide was only history repeating itself. Similar turns in the tide have frequently occurred in the past.

The presidential bee seems to be buzzing around the governor elect of Ohio. His friends now think that because he has had such a great victory in that state, he is the coming man. It is probable that this new boom will not seriously disturb either Mr. Cleveland or Governor Hill. Mr. Campbell very wisely observed when asked whether he would be a candidate, that it would be time enough to talk about the presidency two years from now.

In Canada divorces are granted solely by the upper house of parliament. It has always been regarded as rather small work for senators to be obliged to engage in and spend so much of their time on as it requires annually. Lately an effort has been made to establish a divorce court, but the proposed change is meeting with the strongest opposition from the members of the upper house. It is evident the senators enjoy the bits of spicy scandal served up to them by applicants for divorce bills and they hesitate to give up the privilege.

Considerable interest is being taken in the discussion in New York of the question of reappointing the two women members of the board of school commissioners, Miss Dodge and Mrs. Agnew. It is said that the mayor is personally opposed to the presence of the fair sex on the board because, he says, "women stir things up too much." The women of the metropolis are vowing vengeance against the mayor because of this fling at them and it is perhaps natural that they should be indignant. But after all if it is true that women stir up a school board by all means let them serve on it. One would think that anything or anybody that could stir up the average school board would fill a long felt want.

It is time now for the democratic press, which has done such good work in urging New Jersey prohibitionists not to forsake their third party standard, to laugh in its sleeve. Recognizing the fact that a large prohibition vote meant certain democratic victory the organs of the latter party have devoted much of their energy in urging the prohibitionists to shun compromises with the republicans and to stand by their own candidates. They have stood by those candidates and made democratic success easy. Leon Abbett the attorney for the state liquor dealer's association has been elected governor and back of him is a legislature with a good democratic working majority. The former will not veto any high license or local option bills as his predecessor did because there is no chance that the legislature elected by the saloon men with the assistance of the prohibitionists will pass any nor will the legislature repeal any saloon reform measures because the democratic legislature, which preceded it, struck them all from the statute books. But both governor and legislature, chosen through the influence of the rum power, will look well to the interests of that power in the future, and so far as they can prevent it there will be no saloon reform for New Jersey in the next two years. Prohibitionists may say that they are doing their duty in thus standing obstinately in their lines, but the evidence is too clearly opposed to them in the case. Twice within the last four years the prohibitionists of New Jersey have had the opportunity of aiding practical temperance and twice they have refused it. They may say, as did General Fisk recently, that in republican success lies their greatest danger, but the facts are against such an argument. With public sentiment in New Jersey at its present stand prohibition is as much an impossibility there as it has been proved to be in several other states. But high license and local option have been proved to be both possible and practical. They have been given to New Jersey by republican administrations and they have been, notwithstanding their successes in the direction of practical temperance, trampled on by succeeding democratic administrations. With the records of the two parties in the past and their promises for the future on the liquor question to choose between the prohibitionists chose to aid the democrats by voting for their third party candidates. On them lies the responsibility for the wholesale victory of the rum element.

PITTSBURG, November 11.—A gigantic pool, in which all the leading window glass manufacturers in the United States will co-operate as to the price of the product and other matters of importance to the trade, is in progress of reorganization. It will go into effect next January.

[Special Cor[illegible]]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A wide, treeless plain, looking vaster and drearier than ever beneath the creeping shadows of evening, amid which the last gleam of sunset glows red and angrily in the far west; a dark belt of matted brushwood, marking the winding course of a shallow, muddy river, a score of camp fires twinkling faintly along its bank amid the gathering dimness, like stars seen through a mist; sheaves of lances and rifles piled around them with military exactness, and groups of gaunt white clad figures and dark, lean, wolfish faces flitting ghostlike to and fro in the spectral glare of the firelight. Such was the scene upon which I came suddenly one evening in Central Asia during Russia's last war with the native tribes of Tartary.

These men were the renowned "Cossacks," of whom the world has heard so much and seen so little, and whom it usually pictures to itself as forever rushing at full gallop across a boundless plain, with a writhing baby on their lance point and a slice of raw horse flesh "keeping hot" between the steel and the saddle—maintaining themselves and their horses where there is nothing to eat, and amassing stores of ill gotten gain where there is no one to rob. In reality, I have always found this legendary ogre a very jovial, boyish, simple hearted fellow, who, though too often committing fearful atrocities when his blood is up in battle, has never done anything worse than many recorded deeds of far more civilized soldiers within the memory of living men.

It is with warriors like these that Russia is now hewing a path of conquest across the whole breadth of Central Asia and overpowering the fierce Afghans and Turkomans with a hardihood and endurance even greater than their own. In bearing heat and cold, thirst and hunger, long marches and unwholesome camping grounds no man living can surpass the Cossack. It is true that against the disciplined armies of Germany these wild spearmen would be of little use except as scouts and foragers; but for the irregular warfare of the eastern deserts they have no match on the face of the earth.

Most of the men were lying stretched on the ground after their march, in lazy enjoyment; for a Cossack's life has no medium—either rushing across the steppe like a whirlwind, or snoring in the dirt like a hog. But a few were still busy around the fires, and some of them struck up all at once an old Russian war song as familiar to my ears as to their own:

"Soldiers, soldiers, lads of the czar,
Who are your fathers, say?"
"Our fathers are battles whose fame rings loud,
They are our fathers—they!"

"Soldiers, soldiers, lads of the czar,
Who are your mothers, say?"
"Our mothers are tents standing white on the field,
They are our mothers—they!"

"Soldiers, soldiers, lads of the czar,
Who are your sisters, say?"
"Our sisters are sabres whetted to smite,
They are our sisters—they!"

"Soldiers, soldiers, tell me once more
Who are your brides, I pray?"
"Our brides they are guns well loaded for fight,
They are our brides—aye, they!"

As the song ended, I walked into the camp quite unnoticed; for, in my soiled white Russian forage cap, travel stained cotton jacket and trousers and knee high boots, I was quite like enough to the men around me to have passed for one of themselves in that uncertain light. But I had no wish to avoid their observation.

I sat down on a stone and, taking out my colored map of Central Asia, pretended to be studying it, knowing well that the Cossacks (who, like most savages, are as curious as children) would soon be drawn around me by the sight of this strange object, which, with its gay colors, queerly printed names and puzzling network of crossed lines, would be a very novel and startling thing to them.

And so it proved. I suddenly became aware of a gaunt, sallow, gray mustached visage so crisscrossed with saber scars as to look just like a railway map peering inquisitively over my shoulder. Then another and another came edging in beside it, till I was hemmed in by a complete ring of wild figures and grim faces.

"What's that picture, father? We can't quite make it out."

"It's not a picture at all, brothers—it's a plan that shows me the very way by which you have come here from Holy Russia and all the places that you have passed through."

And then, seeming not to notice the looks of unbelief and meaning grins with which my hearers received what they considered to be a most outrageous lie, I went on:

"Up here, at Orenburg, you passed the Ural river and then marched eastward to Orsk, where you crossed the frontier and turned to the southeast."

"So we did, comrades!" shouted half a dozen voices at once. "He speaks the truth—so we did."

"Then you passed Fort Kara Butak, crossed the Kara Koum desert and halted here and here and here (naming and describing the various posts, all of which I knew well).

The Cossacks listened open mouthed and wide eyed to the familiar names, and the excited clamor was followed by a silence of utter amazement. Then one said timidly:

"Father, can you show us the very place where we are now?"

"To be sure I can, my lad. See, that black spot is the village yonder, there's the river, twisting and winding, and here, just where you see this line, is your camp."

There was another pause of blank bewilderment, and then the scarred veteran with the gray mustache asked in awestricken whisper:

"But, father, tell me, for the love of heaven, if we've marched a thousand miles since leaving Holy Russia, how the devil can it all go into a little scrap of paper no bigger than an Easter cake?"

SIMMONS' SUCCESSOR

Mr. L. C. Dana Again Elected to the Office of City Marshal

There was present at the adjourned meeting of the city council last night Mayor Gillman and all of the council men but Alderman Lawton who was reported ill.

The clerk read the resignation of Walter A. J. Hunter as a night patrolman. Upon motion the resignation was accepted.

The clerk next read a petition signed by numerous citizens setting forth their choice for city marshal. A number of names were mentioned as choice, but Mr. L. C. Dana led by a large majority.

Alderman Stubbs stated that the D. & R. G. railroad company is unwilling to give the Electric Light company or any other private corporation right of way across its tracks for any purpose. The company is therefore unable to lay its wires [illegible] concerning which the [illegible] dealings. As the [illegible] city to be owned by the city it was proposed that it ask the railroad for right of way over the necessary 200 feet.

Mr. C. H. White, of the El Paso Electric Light company, was present and granted the privilege of the floor. He stated that the company was prepared to convey the whole line to the city immediately or any part of it, and that there should be no expense to the city in securing the right of way.

Alderman Stubbs moved that upon the company conveying to the city the 200 feet that the mayor be instructed to ask the road for the right of way. The motion prevailed.

It was moved that the council proceed to the election of a city marshal. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Gillingham that the first ballot be informal. Carried. The vote was taken as follows:

INFORMAL BALLOT.

James McCabe	[illegible]
L. C. Dana	[illegible]
W. L. Phillips	[illegible]

FIRST FORMAL.

James McCabe	1
J. W. Hagerman	[illegible]
L. C. Dana	5

Mr. Dana having received sufficient votes he was declared elected to the office of city marshal.

Alderman Sprague suggested that a successor to Policeman Hunter be elected, and suggested the name of Mr. Woods now acting temporarily. Alderman Stubbs thought the matter should be left with the marshal and the police board, and Mr. Sprague and the councilmen agreed to this.

Alderman W. R. Barnes stated that Dr. Spicer was very anxious to be permitted to connect his sewer pipe with the one from the city hall, and asked that permission. The matter was referred to the sewer committee with power to act.

The mayor informed the council of an interview had recently with a D. & R. G. official regarding the Huerfano street crossing and other matters, the substance of which appeared in the GAZETTE Sunday morning.

The council then adjourned.

District Court.

In the district court yesterday the case of Rensallaer Smith vs. County Commissioners, a dispute over fees, was dismissed at the cost of appellant.

People vs. Fritz Lounk, defendant plead guilty to assault and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

People vs. C. M. McCleary, charged with the theft of $6 from a Colorado City colored woman, was tried with a jury. The jury was out until after 7 o'clock, and finally announced that it could not agree. As it would cost less to re-try the case than to keep the jury out all night Judge Campbell did not detain them longer.

The grand jury returned four true bills during the day.

The People vs. John Murphy, assault with a deadly weapon: defendant plead not guilty and trial was set for November 15th at 9 a. m.

People vs. Wm. Butler, defendant failed to appear and his bond was forfeited.

People vs. M. Johnson, same order as above.

People vs. Daniel Clark, larceny, defendant arraigned and plead not guilty. Trial set for 14th at 9 o'clock.

Late in the afternoon the case of O. L. Daniels vs. J. F. Pracht, to recover for the proceeds of the sale of some horses, was taken before a jury. The jury remained out until 9 o'clock and finally returned a verdict for the defendant.

People vs. Reeves, defendant arraigned, plead not guilty. Charles Smith was appointed to defend, and trial set for 19th at 2 p. m.

Sheriff A. N. Wilcox, of Kit Carson county arrived in the city yesterday and was in consultation with District Attorney [illegible]. It is believed in relation to matters concerning the noted Hatch [illegible]. It is known that Hatch's attorneys were in Kit Carson county last week accompanied by a stenographer, taking depositions, that they may ask for a change of venue.

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, November 11.—The stock market was feverish and irregular on a very moderate volume of business to-day, and while stocks as a rule were well held, the bears attacked some spots with such vigor as to force a material decline. The only changes of importance to-night are advances of 2½ in Manitoba and 1½ in Jersey Central, and a decline of 1½ in Missouri Pacific.

Refers to a Committee

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., November 11.—The Cherokee council to-day took up the matter of the sale of the outlet to the government. It was referred to the committee on foreign affairs which is composed of ex-chief Ross, F. H. Mayes, brother of Chief Mayes, and Stephen Tehe, all of whom are opposed to the sale of the land.

All but Foraker.

COLUMBUS, November 11.—The official returns show the republican candidate for lieutenant governor to have a majority of 131. All of the republican ticket but Foraker are elected.

Clockwork Lamp-lighting.

Boston Herald.

For sometime past pedestrians on State street have remarked a peculiar attachment to the lamp post at the corner of State and Devonshire Streets, and many have been the surmises as to the contents of the little iron box and its usages. Superintendent Allen, of the lamp department, said it was an arrangement for lighting the gas at a certain hour each night and turning it out a certain hour in the morning. In fact it is a newly invented machine designed to do the work of the lamp lighter, with the single exception of cleaning the lamp. It has a clockwork arrangement, which is so regulated that it conforms to the moon's changes and lights the gas and puts it out early or late, according to the fullness of the moon or change in time of rising or setting.

The machine is about the shape of a pear, and contains a clock of the eight day pattern, which in turn is attached to a fulminate cylinder in which are 400 small holes filled with a waterproof fulminate compound or enough to last a whole year. In place of the alarm on the clock is a spring which is attached to a cylinder, and when the hands of the clock point to the designated hour, the cylinder is turned by a ratchet having the same number of teeth as there are pits on the circular of the cylinder, a spring is loosened, the gas turned on and a small hammer strikes one of the pit holes and the result is that the gas is lighted at a uniform hour all over the city, or wherever the appliance is attached.

By a simple mechanism after the gas is lighted the reverse is the order, and at the same time at which the clock is set in the morning the gas is turned off all over the city. A man is only required to visit each street lamp once a week by the new arrangement to clean the lamps and at the same time to wind the clock; or, if he should happen to miss a day, the work will be performed just the same by this automatic lamp lighter as the clock runs nine days.

Sir James Hector, New Zealand's foremost scientist, has been deploring what he describes as "the perfect athletic mania which has arisen in the Australias." To be a hero in the colonies now, he says, you must excel, not in brain work, but in the training of the muscles of the arms and legs.

Portland, Me., looks out for the pleasure as well as the mental welfare of its school children, and so, when it was announced that the post ho[illegible] was to be burned soon, a petition was at once sent to the mayor asking him to have the bonfire on Saturday afternoon so that the children could see the show.

[illegible] celebrated [illegible] them, but a fact that it is to be. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul also stands upon a somewhat [illegible] footing, but as the Drexel-Morgan-Vanderbilt party virtually control its [illegible], it will in no way antagonize the combination, and may, therefore, be included. Some other lines are yet to be announced; so the total capital will be very near $500,000,000 and the debt's nearly as much.

J. Pierpont Morgan is credited with having engineered this great deal, and [illegible] at the crowning act of his experience in organizing a [illegible]. The actual cash paid is reported at $1,000,000, [illegible] of the stock, of course, remaining in the hands of the present holders. Of this cash the Vanderbilts furnished the larger part from their "private means"—that is, without sale of other stocks or drawing on their corporation treasury. In short, it was simply a [illegible] they had laid by out of their private [illegible]. The rest comes from Boston men, who own stock in the Union Pacific.

They Are Much Talked Of.

The portraits given here are of two [illegible] who have been talked and written of a good deal of late. Prince Murat, who was to have married Miss Mary Gwendoline Caldwell, and Miss Huntington, nee Princess, who did marry Prince Hatzfeldt. Prince Murat is credited with having broken off the marriage with Miss Caldwell because she would allow him as her husband but a beggarly $10,000 a year. It is painful to hear that the marriage may be arranged later on after all.
